ALLIED OFFENSIVE CRACKS ROER RIVER LINE

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

THE AMERICAN NINTH army's fresh drive against the German northern flank, along the flooded valley of the Roer river in the Netherlands, strengthens the belief that another big Allied push in this vital zone is imminent.

One suspects that this was the subject of the mysterious conference Tuesday night "somewhere in Belgium" between Gen. Eisenhower and Field Marshal Montgomery, commanding the 21st Army group in the north. They weren't playing checkers.

If the present push does develop into a full-fledged offensive it likely will be calculated to turn the Nazi flank, compelling the Hitlerites to fall back from the Roer and accept battle in the open plain west of the Cologne-Dusseldorf sector of the Rhine. The grim purpose of these tactics is to force Nazi Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's armies up against the Rhine and annihilate them.

That's the main business of the Allied command right now—to kill or capture German soldiers. Hitler's lightning machine must be smashed. Territorial gains are secondary and will take care of themselves later. We mustn't forget that the developing battle of the Cologne plain probably is the decisive engagement.

Von Rundstedt himself has invited these tactics by electing to defend the Cologne plan to the last ditch. With this in view he has massed in this area all the troops he can rake up. He even has weakened his defense of Nazi Germany's great Saar industrial center on the southern end of the fighting front.

Why should the Nazi command take such chances? Because the Ruhr manufacturing area, which lies behind the Rhine opposite the Allied northern flank is vastly more important than the Saar. The latter has been one of Hitler's mainstays, but the Ruhr is the heart of Germany's industrial effort. Without it the Reich couldn't carry on.

TWO DEVELOPMENTS may have opened the way for another offensive. British Prime Minister Churchill got away the secret of one yesterday when he told the house of commons that the great Belgian port of Antwerp actually is handling cargoes once more. Eisenhower is heavily dependent on this harbor for the vast stream of supplies he will need and he had to be sure it was ready for business before embarking on new adventures.

The other development lies in the fierce fighting which has been proceeding along the northern flank. Slowly but steadily the Allies—

Treatment Of War Prisoners In U. S., Abroad Summarized

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The house military committee reported today that American prisoners of Germany are, in the main, humanely treated. It said prisoners in Japan proper seem to be faring better than those in Japanese-occupied territories.

Axis prisoners in the United States, it said, are well treated but not pampered.

The committee's report to the house grew out of complaints which Chairman May (D., Ky.) said indicated laxity in the handling of German and Italian prisoners.

Committee investigators who made first-hand inquiries in prison camps throughout the country reported no evidence of too-lenient treatment of inmates. They did relate reports that in many cases prisoners received better attention and more privileges than United States soldiers.

At the time the investigation was completed, early this month, the committee said, there were 281,344 German, 51,032 Italian and 2,242 Japanese war prisoners in 132 base camps and 334 branch camps.

The committee had this to say about American handling of prisoners:

"The number of escape attempts is 'surprisingly small' and confined almost entirely to Germans 'often actuated by fear of their fellow-prisoners.'"

"Japanese prisoners... they occasionally engage in mass attempts at haka-kiri which are carried out by the most violent and spectacular means at hand."

Provisions of the Geneva convention for treatment of prisoners are being "carried out to the letter by the United States."

The Germans have "adopted a less liberal interpretation of some portions of the convention than has our government," the probable reasons being "the exigencies of the situation in Germany."

While the "primary example of unilateral interpretation of the treaty by the Germans is in connection with the food rations," the committee said, the German government permits large supplies of food to be sent to prisoners through the Red Cross and other agencies. Prisoners of Germany receive good medical care, the committee added.

The Japanese government, it reported, "has but partially implemented the terms of the convention and has not provided conditions of life on an Occidental standard."

The committee said Swiss representatives confirmed reports that the food given prisoners in Japanese camps is superior to that available to Japanese civilians.

Information and application forms for enrollment may be secured from Dean Hyde or through Miss Katharine L. Cromer, director of nurses training at Salem City hospital.

The students will enroll for a full semester's work, will receive a full semester of college credit and will have all privileges granted students on the campus. The prescribed courses are chemistry, by Dr. Louis Pappenhagen, micro-biology by Dr. Joseph Scott, anatomy by Professor Oliver Engle, psychology and sociology by Professor Phila Humphreys and physical education by Mrs. Frances Pederson.

This is the second group of Cadet nurses to receive training at Mount Union. A group from the Alliance City hospital took this course during the summer terms. The girls will be housed in Shunk house for the semester.

NO SUPERFORTS LOST ON RAID

Bombs Fall On Nipponese Capital Despite Rep- rissal Threats

(By Associated Press)

All Superfortresses which participated in the third B-29 strike on Tokyo Wednesday night returned to their base, a 20th Air Force communiqué said today.

In the three raids on Japan's capital, two Superfortresses have been lost. The crew of one of these was rescued by a destroyer.

Returning airmen reported that anti-aircraft fire was meager and inaccurate. Results were not observed because of a cloud cover.

It was a moonlight raid but heavy clouds prevented bombardiers from sighting the target and precision instruments were used.

Targets were the industrial area of Tokyo where some of Japan's heaviest war-making industries are concentrated.

A medium sized force participated—less than half the sizable forces of the two previous B-29 attacks.

Two Attacks in Five Hours
Fire-struck Tokyo, its defenses admittedly penetrated twice in five hours Wednesday (U. S. time) by Superfortresses, is getting a foretaste of a campaign "to destroy the heart and the nerve centers of Japan's war machine."

Gen. H. H. Arnold, commanding general of the Army Air Forces, placed that interpretation last night at Kansas City on a gathering drive which has put bombers over Tokyo on three days within a week.

This air war on Japan proper has these ramifications:
Fires started Wednesday raged for a considerable time in Tokyo.

Increased Tokyo radio announcers "reported that the B-29s who parachuted after 'blow' bombing Tokyo would be 'killed on the spot by the angry Japanese people'."

Premier Gen. Kuniaki Koiso held a cabinet meeting yesterday because to quote Tokyo radio—"in due course various bottlenecks are expected to appear with many unexpected resulting effects."

Laborers from Saipan cratered the Volcano Island airfield the enemy has been using to send fighters in raids on the Superfortresses bases at Saipan.

20th Air Force headquarters in Washington tersely announced Wednesday's raid on the "Tokyo area."

Food Point Values Remain Unchanged

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The OPA said today current food point values will be unchanged when the new ration period begins Sunday.

The War Food Administration rejected OPA proposals to put most point-free meat and some major canned vegetables back on the ration list.

The dispute has been referred to Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson. Should he side with OPA, point changes may be made in mid-December, an OPA spokesman said.

WFA, in turning down OPA's appeal, asserted the overall food supply is good and that substitutes are available for any scarce items. It contended high consumption should be encouraged to avoid a large food surplus on V-E (victory in Europe) day.

OPA acknowledged today that the supply of meat, rationed and non-rationed, available for civilians in December is expected to average 281,890,000 pounds weekly, or 5.4 per cent more than the average this month.

This was an increase of 6,878 in one week from Nov. 7.

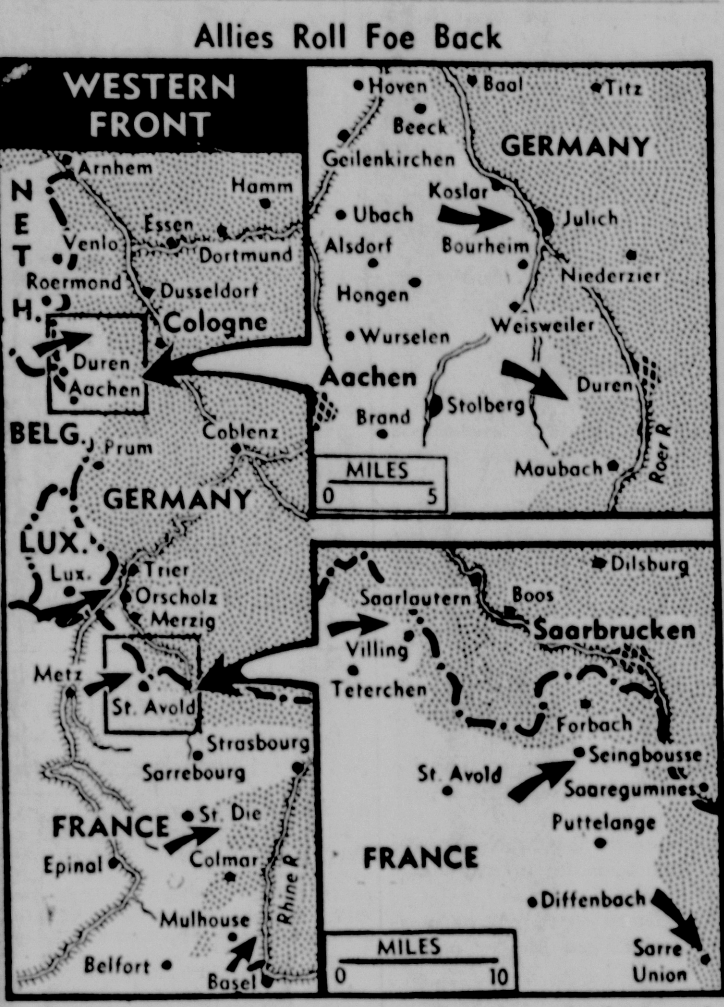

Navy casualties were 75,892, an increase of 1,277 for the week.

Here are the Army casualties, together with those of a week ago:
Killed, 89,540 and 88,245; wounded, 258,106 and 254,263; missing, 75,514 and 56,442; prisoners, 55,536 and 55,210.

The Navy casualties: Killed, 29,480 and 29,208; wounded, 32,600 and 31,574; missing, 9,326 and 9,347; prisoners, 4,486 and 4,486 (unchanged).

The enemies' casualties include nearly three-quarters of a million prisoners taken by the Allies in Europe since D-day in Normandy, in addition to those captured in Italy, Stimson reported in a war review.

May Improve Vets Home
COLUMBUS, Nov. 30.—A $2,140,200 project to enlarge and improve the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors home at Sandusky has been recommended to the State Postwar Program commission. The project would provide facilities for possibly 8,000 World War II veterans, Lieut.-Gov. Paul M. Herbert reported. The home now has 300 residents.

General battlelines of the Western Front are shown in the map at the left above, while at the right are closeup views of the sectors where Allies continue to push the Germans back. The Yanks are nearing Julich on the Roer River in their drive toward Cologne, while the U. S. 3rd Army pushes onward to the Saar border. The Doughboys have also rolled into Sarre Union, important Saar River communications center.

BANKS TO MAIL HOLIDAY FUNDS

$106,199 Christmas Club Money Will Be Distributed Tomorrow

Christmas cheer—the form of Christmas Savings Club checks to the extent of $106,199.20—will be placed in the mails late today for delivery to some 2,127 Salemites on Friday.

The amount saved by thrifty club members this year is nearly $17,000 more than was accumulated in similar clubs in 1943, but is just slightly above the figure saved in 1942, bank officials say.

Although the membership in the clubs formed in the two banks—the First National and the Farmers National—hasn't shown a marked increase over the 1943 membership, the total savings increased nearly 15 per cent.

The average check this season is approximately $49 as compared to about $40 last year.

One noticeable difference in the clubs this year is the increase in the number of savings paid up to date. In past years the completed payments ran as low as 50 per cent but paid up accounts figured better than 75 per cent this year.

One bank official commented on the fact that the $5 clubs and $10 clubs were paid up more regularly and completely than any others. In the $5 class in one bank not a single member failed to complete his 50 payments, while only one $10 member failed to pay the full amount.

The low rate of club regularity comes in the smaller savings of 25 and 50 cents and $1 per week. This may be accountable to the practice of putting such savings into War stamps, bankers say.

KIRK IS APPOINTED ITALY AMBASSADOR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Alexander C. Kirk of Illinois was nominated by President Roosevelt today to be American ambassador to Italy.

Kirk now is United States representative on the Allied advisory committee for Italy. He was American chargé d'affaires in Rome at the time Italy came into the war in June, 1940.

William Phillips was the last previous ambassador to Italy.

Vital Lindern, Beeck Seized By 9th Army

By WILLIAM FRYE

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Ninth army Americans captured Lindern and fought street by street through burning Beeck today up the railroad to Munchen Gladbach in the great Allied offensive cracking the Roer river line before Cologne and Dusseldorf.

Survivors of the Elite SS garrison of strategic Lindern were captured with the town 14½ miles from the Prussian arsenal and rail city of Munchen Gladbach. Most of the Beeck garrison were killed; the stragglers fled toward nearby Wurm.

The First army at the southern end of the critical 25-mile front on the Cologne plain captured Lamersdorf and Grosshau and emerged from the Hurtgen forest. Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' troops fought a see-saw battle for an Inde river bridge at Inden, winning it, losing it, and then regaining the western end of the span.

In the center of the western front, the United States Third army held firm against a series of counter-attacks loosed from the Siegfried line in the Saar, guarding roads through the rich coal and steel region.

LITTELL FIRED BY PRESIDENT

Assistant Attorney General Discharged For 'Insubordination'

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—President Roosevelt, stepping into a red-hot Justice department row, fired Assistant Attorney General Norman Littell today for "insubordination."

Littell had been warring with his chief, Attorney General Biddle, in exchanges that followed Biddle's demand for Littell's resignation. Littell accused Biddle of having interfered in one Justice department case in favor of Thomas G. (Tommy the Cork) Corcoran, former presidential intimate now in private law practice.

Whether this Biddle knockout, scored with White House help, ends the battle entirely is problematical. There remains some talk of a senate investigation.

In a statement given out at the Justice department, the President said:

"When statements made by Norman Littell first appeared in the papers I wrote to him that it was primarily an executive matter and that I hoped for his own career he would resign."

"Since then he has volunteered a long statement, thus substantiating what the attorney general had said about his insubordination."

"This is inexcusable; and under these circumstances my only alternative is to remove him from office, which I have done today."

Attorney General Biddle simultaneously issued the following statement:

"I have read Norman Littell's statement filed with the Mead committee before the committee had determined whether or not it should hold any investigation."

"I do not propose to discuss Mr. Littell's reckless and unfounded statements, or to enter into any controversy with him in the public press."

President Roosevelt intervened after the Senate War Investigating committee headed by Sen. Mead (D-NY) had sidestepped an immediate decision on whether to investigate "irreconcilable" differences between the two justice officials.

Significant Qualifications

In selecting Edward R. Stettinius to succeed Cordell Hull as secretary of state, President Roosevelt passed over two other possibilities who might have been expected to have an inside track.

Henry A. Wallace, who will be out of an official job after inauguration day next January, was the ideological favorite of the extreme internationalists. His appointment also would have pleased his political partisans, but perhaps they will be pleased in some other manner.

James F. Byrnes also was a distinct possibility because of his prestige with the senators whose advice and consent on forthcoming treaties will be a primary goal of state department efforts in the months ahead. Appointment of Mr. Byrnes to the ranking cabinet position might have been Mr. Roosevelt's gesture of conciliation, also, to the Democratic south.

The Stettinius appointment seems to have been dictated by the personal qualifications of Mr. Stettinius, himself, rather than by any outstanding political motive. He is one of the rare figures in current public life who might be expected to make a good of any job he was asked to do—one of the most conspicuously capable of the young career men drawn to Washington during wartime. His age, 44, is a brisk reminder of Gov. Dewey's campaign talking point about rejuvenation. Mr. Stettinius is neither old, nor tired, nor quarrelsome.

He is, on the other hand, an energetic young man with a passion for efficient administration—a quality which marked him for special attention on his previous assignments and is expected to characterize his performance as the ranking cabinet officer. It may be true that Mr. Roosevelt expects to guide the state department from the White House, as he has done for the most part since 1933, but no one who has kept track of Mr. Stettinius' rise in public life will expect him to play the role of either figurehead or yes-man.

Germany's Nemesis

The report on Allied and neutral shipping losses from the beginning of the war in the fall of 1939 to the end of 1943 reveals the true identity of Germany's Nemesis—the ability of its enemies in two world wars to survive on the high seas.

The figures in the report are staggering, but they amount to this: That by the end of 1943, Allied and neutral losses attributable to the war had destroyed more gross tonnage than was possessed in 1939 by Great Britain, with twice as much tonnage as its nearest competitor, the United States. The losses were roughly one-third of the total of the world's merchant shipping fleet—and they did not include the losses of Germany, Japan and Italy.

In the number of ships, the losses reached 5,768, as against the replacement of 4,308 by United States production alone since 1939. In other words, without American shipyards Germany well might have escaped its Nemesis in World War II, but as in World War I it made the fatal mistake of forgetting that American production inevitably would become a major factor in any war threatening the security of the United States.

As the result of the war, obviously, the United States will have supplanted Great Britain as possessor of the world's largest merchant marine. It will have won this place not only by circumstances of production, but by ability to replace losses in its own fleet and the fleets of its allies. Japan will be reduced to negligible merchant fleet strength; Britain will be possessor of the only other navy of any consequence—a post-war certainty that will have more bearing on security than all the paper agreements and noble resolutions that will be arrived at in the next 50 years. Germany has proved conclusively twice—to its own sorrow—that a nation which hopes to achieve dominance must have balanced naval strength.

An Outlawed Assumption

After World War I, the argument for compulsory military training was refuted with the claims of peacemakers that future wars had been made impossible. It was hopeless to try to convince Americans under those circumstances that a war to end wars should be followed by preparation for war.

At the beginning of the great debate on compulsory training which will be held during 1945 as the new congress considers that subject, the argument in its behalf is certain to be refuted with the same claim—that future wars have been made impossible. That is an assumption that should be outlawed. It is too absurd to have any place in an honest argument.

Future wars cannot be made impossible, but the circumstances of future wars can be resisted, just as humanity has learned to resist epidemics, once regarded as inevitable. Success in that direction has been attained by preventive measures. Success in the direction of preventing war can be attained in somewhat the same way, eventually.

We are closer to success than we were in 1918 at this time. We are closer than we were in 1938, the year before Germany attacked Poland. We are closer than we were in 1943, before the Dumbarton Oaks conference. We are not close enough, nor have we any hope of getting close enough, to make the ridiculous assumption that there will be no more war—only close enough to believe that there need be no more war.

Eventually, Why Now?

The question of when to raise the social security tax for old age retirement benefits is disclosing some of the confused thinking underlying the operation of social security as a whole. On the eve of the Roosevelt administration's proposals for broadening the social security structure, as proposed by the Republican candidate for president in the recent campaign, there still is no area of agreement in government, itself, on a proper financial basis.

Briefly, the issue lies between those who insist that social security taxes should be related closely to distribution of benefits and those who insist on a modified application of the system that would be used by private insurance companies to create reserves. Sen. Vandenberg of Michigan has been principal spokesman for the first school, and the Roosevelt administration has supported the second school.

Both agree that ultimately, i. e., when old age benefits become payable at a higher rate than now, taxes should be higher than at present. Under the original social security act, the rate for old age retirement was to go to 1½ per cent in 1940, 2 per cent in 1943, 2½ per cent in 1946 and finally 3 per cent in 1949, on both employees and employers. In 1939, congress postponed until 1943 the boost for 1940, holding the tax at the original 1 per cent until 1943. In 1943, the rate again was frozen, and the present question is on continuation of the freeze. Otherwise, the rate will rise to 2 per cent, where it probably would remain indefinitely, since not even the proponents of a large reserve care to argue that the rate should rise to 2½ per cent or 3 per cent, a total of 6 per cent on employees and employers covered by the act.

For Friday, December 1.

THE AUGURIES for this day may be read as decidedly dubious or problematical with most affairs under a restless, indecisive and unsettled impetus. The final outcome may depend upon what degree of circumspect, clever and sagacious tactics are brought to bear upon menacing situations. There is prospect of change, travel, new agreements, contracts and associations and these may not be propitious. Litigation, bad investments, snap judgments, extravagance and over-optimism may be besetting dangers. Sign papers carefully and do not trust too easily.

Those whose birthday it is are liable to encounter a year of difficulties and dangers, with the mental, nervous and physical energies under high tension reacting on the power to make wise judgments, sound investments, or otherwise organize plans and programs for their progress, advancement and personal satisfaction. There may be an urge to make sudden changes, unsafe journeys or to be carried away by over enthusiasm into false situations, duplicity and unsuccessful litigation. Sign all writings with precaution, be circumspect in behavior, and shun traps and lures, excesses and over indulgences.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Some Recent Ideas On Infant Feeding

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IN A RECENT article on modern ideas in infant feeding I wrote that one fundamental principle has never changed, which is that the very best food for new born infants is mother's milk, and that if a baby can get a start in life of only two months of breast feeding it will guarantee a minimum of digestive and nutritional trouble in the future.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

I am encouraged to repeat this here because with the enormous upsurge in our crop of new babies, campaigns are being conducted all over the country to persuade mothers to nurse their babies and to teach them how to do it in the most effective way. This is done by breast feeding demonstrations to young mothers. The campaign was suggested and started by Julius P. Sedgwick, but its success is largely due to the enthusiastic work of Dr. Frank Howard Richardson, formerly consultant of the division of Child Hygiene State Department of Health, New York, and now in North Carolina.

Human Lactation

The studies made by the various groups who have been doing this work have resulted, as Dr. Richardson pointedly puts it, in giving us first hand knowledge about human lactation instead of as hitherto by analogy with the time-honored milk producing mammal which has so far supplied most of our scientific data regarding milk production.

In other words, we are learning that a woman isn't exactly like a cow and shouldn't be treated as such.

Breast feeding with mother's milk has gone out of fashion for several reasons. One was that the young mother of our hurry-burry age thought it tied her down too much and wasn't necessary. Another was that the idea got around that the modern girl couldn't give enough milk—the breasts went dry in a few weeks after birth. This particular phenomenon when it occurred was almost always due to ignorance and lack of proper instruction on the part of the medical profession.

Still another reason is the idea which has got about that special formulae or infant's foods are scientifically better adapted to an infant than mother's milk. This is another misconception due to bad education.

Fretful Infant

It is often supposed that an infant which is fretful or crying after a feeding is having a colic. More often it is because it is unsatisfied and hungry. The reason the breasts dry up a few weeks after nursing has begun is in nine out of ten cases because the baby has not been allowed to empty them completely. Perhaps the baby is too weak, or perhaps satisfied before complete emptying. But the nursing mother should learn to strip the breasts by manual expression after each feeding until they are empty. A breast functions in proportion to the demands made on it. When it is completely emptied at each feeding it increases its supply with the demands of the growing infant.

There are cases that are on record in the breast feeding demonstration clinics of breasts that have gone almost completely dry at the end of six weeks, when stripping and manual expression were instituted came back so that in 30 days each breast was producing nearly thirty ounces of milk in 24 hours.

The timing of breast feedings can be spaced so the objection about tying the mother down does not arise. There is no reason why the baby has to be fed in the middle of the evening—say, 10 p. m. The night feeding can be done just as well at 11 p. m. or midnight. An adequate feeding schedule is 6 a. m., 10 a. m., 2 p. m., 6 p. m. and midnight.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendenning has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendenning, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Re-feeding Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining Weight," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diarrhea," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

• SO THEY SAY

There is nothing I would welcome more than the collaboration of all peace-loving states, large or small, but the truth is that unless the great powers can work together the foundations of peace are not there.

—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

Do you know I have seen my wife just two weeks in our married life? We got married Jan. 1, 1942, and I went away to the Army two weeks later.

—Pfc. Leo Crivello of Alton, Ill., chosen in Germany to come home for War Bond tour.

It is no exaggeration to say that our war production job is still enormous. Since the first of the year the Army alone has been letting new contracts at an average weekly rate of $550,000,000.

—Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson.

The Japanese, in particular, feel that they will be able to salvage the greater part of their empire simply by prolonging hostilities—working for a draw.

Washington Round-up

News and Views, Briefly On What's Going On In Capital

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—A bill freezing the Social Security tax is favored almost two to one by the house ways and means committee. Mr. Roosevelt wants the tax on pay of employees and payrolls of employers to rise on Jan. 1 from one to two per cent.

Even advocates of the freeze admit they can not muster enough votes to override a presidential veto.

More touchy is the bitter Justice department feud which Mr. Roosevelt may have to settle. The controversy involves Attorney General Biddle and Assistant Attorney General Norman M. Littell. Biddle has asked Littell to resign; Littell has refused and countered with accusations against the attorney general.

Either Biddle or Littell must leave the department, asserted Sen. Hatch (D-NM.), following an investigation of the squabble by the Senate War Investigating committee.

Senate Republicans already are mapping plans for the 1946 and 1948 elections. They are working on a legislative program which they hope will net votes. The group probably will draw legislation on postwar taxes, social security, agriculture, foreign policy and labor to lay before the new congress.

Leon Henderson, former price administrator is scheduled to handle economic affairs in that part of Germany to be controlled by Americans after war's end. He is due to leave for London next week.

Current point values for good probably will be extended indefinitely—the result of differences between OPA and the War Food Administration. The controversy may be settled in time for point revisions sometime next month.

STIMSON STRESSES ARTILLERY NEEDS IN EUROPE BATTLE

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Gen. Eisenhower had to delay his general offensive until enough artillery ammunition accumulated. Secretary of War Stimson disclosed today.

In a news conference discussion of the critical need for ammunition, Stimson gave this outline of the situation in Europe.

Following this rush across Europe, "we experienced a series of artillery difficulties. First was the limitation imposed by disrupted railroad lines for the delivery of the ammunition available in the ports. As the railroad situation greatly improved, the next bottleneck was the incapacity of the ports to deliver the ammunition available in Great Britain."

Following this as the armies approached the Rhine "it became necessary for Gen. Eisenhower to delay a general offensive until an adequate reserve of artillery ammunition could be accumulated."

He said the present consumption of ammunition is on a tremendous scale and that in Europe we are firing probably ten times the ammunition fired by the Germans. Explaining, he said we are forced to use artillery ammunition to destroy concrete structures as well as to destroy the enemy himself.

Moreover, he added, "we insist on an overwhelming artillery power for the support of our infantry not merely to gain success in battle but more particularly to hold down the number of casualties."

The opening of the port of Antwerp, within easy distance of the fighting front, "will tremendously increase the possibility of delivering ammunition" to the front, Stimson said.

DDT—Death to Insects
WASHINGTON — DDT, the new insect powder, is doing so well against malaria in the Pacific that Brig. Gen. R. W. Bliss and F. W. Rankin reported to the Army Surgeon General's office that they found not a single mosquito on a recent tour of inspection in an area that previously had had the highest rate of malaria.

Abolishment of Civil Service Board Proposed

COLUMBUS, Nov. 30.—State Senator John P. Stephenson of East Liverpool proposed yesterday that the present bi-partisan State Civil Service commission be abolished and a five-man, non-partisan board be substituted to direct matters of general personnel policy.

Stephenson, who spoke at a meeting of the American Association of Welfare Workers in Ohio, asserted the administration of civil service "could best be served by a well paid personnel director, hired by the board." Such a plan, he said, would result in "improved" system of job classification.

Jobs For 55,000,000

Plan Peacetime Employment To Exceed Payrolls Of 1940

By S. BURTON HEATH

NEA Staff Writer

The Committee for Economic Development estimates that to insure prosperity, this country must create more jobs than there were in 1940, when the war boom began. This means that jobs must be provided for approximately 55,000,000 men and women. The figures are somewhat fluid, but they round out like this:

There are 10,500,000 in uniform. The CED estimates that about 2,500,000 will be retained in the armed forces for some time to come. Jobs must be found for the remaining 8,000,000.

There are 17,300,000 now employed in war work. But most of these are making goods which differ little from consumer commodities. Only about 5,200,000 are making armament and munitions, the manufacture of which will stop almost completely when Japan is beaten.

If it be assumed—as is possible with a healthy economy created by prompt, efficient, reconversion—that only these 5,200,000 will be thrown completely out of work, then the ultimate problem is to find employment for 13,200,000 soldiers, sailors, marines and direct war workers.

MANPOWER POOL
Of this manpower pool about 5,800,000 consists of housewives, overage and youthful workers who do not properly belong in the ranks of jobholders. Many of them might like to keep on earning money, but the country can become prosperous without providing for them.

This leaves about 7,400,000 jobs to be found. In 1940, there were some 46,600,000 men and women employed. The CED estimates that with improved production methods, the same results now can be achieved with 39,500,000 workers. At present only 35,000,000 are employed on consumer goods and services. On that basis around 4,500,000 can be reabsorbed in the process of bringing our civilian economy back to 1940 levels.

Out of such an arbitrary computation one might come to the conclusion that, ultimately, we had only 3,000,000 jobs to find—to be exact, 7,400,000 minus 4,500,000 equals 2,900,000.

The CED, however, in its report compiled by Prof. A. D. H. Kaplan of the University of Denver's Department of Economics, says that peacetime placement must be provided for about seven millions.

NO AUTOMATIC SHIFT
Study of the report indicates that this large differential arises out of the reasonable conclusion that many of the 12,100,000 now making civilian-type goods, and performing civilian type services, but for war purposes, will not shift automatically to civilian production, but will be thrown out of work. And also that the elderly—will succeed in holding jobs that otherwise would go to other employables.

This is the ultimate picture. Only part of this displacement will come with the fall of Germany. The best estimates available place the number who will be looking for employment soon after Hitler's collapse at about five millions—perhaps a million soldiers discharged from the Army plus some four million war workers turned loose by contract cancellations.

These five millions can easily be absorbed. Their services are badly needed. But they can't be put to work until factories are able to start making consumer goods in place of the armaments and munitions that we shall no longer require.

Next: Government Reconversion Plans.

Until 1940, the chemical butadiene was not produced commercially in the United States.

CHECK OF BALLOTS GIVES DEWEY 11,530 MAJORITY IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, Nov. 30 — Ohioans gave Republican Thomas E. Dewey a majority of 11,530 votes over President Roosevelt in the Nov. 7 election. 1,382,293 to 1,370,763, official returns compiled by Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel showed today.

Democratic Mayor Frank J. Lausche of Cleveland won over Republican Mayor James Garfield Stewart of Cincinnati by 112,359 votes—1,402,809 to 1,491,450.

The official returns disclosed a difference of only 3,700 votes in Dewey's plurality, compared with the total compiled by The Associated Press, using its own exclusive state-wide tabulating and reporting system.

The AP's election report was 99.99 per cent correct, within 24 10-100 of one per cent of the official presidential returns. A total of 3,103,000 votes were cast in the state.

In the gubernatorial race, The Associated Press tabulation was within 43 10-100 of one per cent of the correct total.

The official count gave U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft a total of 1,500,309 votes—482,610 for Democrat William O. Pickrel of Dayton.

Steel Shipments To Britain Will End

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. — The United States plans to halt lend-lease shipments of iron and steel to Britain Jan. 1.

This means a drastic downward revision of the war aid program for 1945.

It was announced officially today in a statement summing up lengthy Lend-Lease American lend-lease conferences just concluded here. They resulted in a $5,600,000 program for shipments to Britain during 1945—a cut of almost 50 per cent under comparable figures for this year.

Elimination of cost-free shipments of steel and some other "raw and semi-fabricated materials" to Britain is made possible by decreasing war demands on Britain's own steel industry, it was learned.

It has been ordered into effect January 1 in order to smooth the way for reconversion of British industry to civilian production on an "equitable basis" with reconversion in this country. The British are anxious to reconvert in order to begin regaining their 71 per cent loss in exports.

13-SHIP JAP CONVOY SUNK

U. S. Fighter Planes Upset Enemy's Leyte Reinforcement Plan

(By Associated Press)

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Nov. 30.—Slashing American fighter planes sank 10 Japanese transports and three destroyers, with at least 4,000 reinforcements aboard, in a blistering Tuesday-Wednesday battle which crippled an apparent Japanese effort to land a full new division on Leyte island.

The latest strike pushed to 21,000 the Japanese death toll for reinforcements who failed to reach port, but some fresh troops evidently slipped ashore to join the rain-swept battle of Ormoc corridor.

Two transports in this sixth major reinforcement convoy were destroyed in Ormoc port, after they partially had unloaded men and supplies.

The other eight transports were destroyed "well out at sea," today's communique said, and an estimated 4,000 troops were lost.

The destroyers were sunk while escorting the convoy.

The Japanese have lost 26 transports and 17 escort vessels, mostly destroyers, in their desperate efforts to pour men onto Leyte. In addition three cargo vessels, "apparently headed" for Ormoc, were sunk last week off Cebu.

It was probable, said the communique, that this latest convoy was bringing in another division, "as prisoners of war captured on the front stated they had been told the Second Japanese infantry division was expected."

There was no estimate of the number of men who might have landed at Ormoc. Despite heavy sea losses, the Japanese have put ashore more than 35,000 reinforcements since Oct. 25.

Steaming rains limited ground activity for the third straight day. The communique reported that 23 inches of rain have fallen on Leyte since Nov. 1.

Front-line American echelons are being supplied partially by air.

A zoo elephant has been known to consume 200 pounds of hay a day.

The War Today

Don't the Germans know what's cooking? Of course they do. Their commentators for days have been predicting an offensive on this northern flank. The fact that the Nazis have opened dam flood-gates on the Roer to block the Ninth army clearly indicates that they believe a fresh crisis is close.

When the big show develops it will produce some of the toughest fighting of the war. It can't be otherwise for bound up in it are (1) the very existence of Von Rundstedt's armies, and (2) the ability of the Reich to continue resistance. There is, of course, now no question of a successful outcome for the Allies, but the rate of progress will depend heavily on the weather and the condition of the water-logged terrain. We shall do well to recognize that the going will be hard.

SUPERFORTS

It added the results would be reported later.

Tokyo Radio Report
Today (Thursday) a Japanese Imperial headquarters communique, broadcast from Tokyo and recorded in the United States by the Federal Communications commission, gave this unconfirmed version:

Twenty Superforts attacked in "several waves" from about midnight to 4:30 a. m. Thursday (Tokyo time).
The fires that continued to rage in part of the areas affected were put under control by 5:30 a. m.

No claim was made of any B-29 being shot down, recalling last Friday's attack from which all the Superfortresses got back to Saipan.

The attacks were spread over "the metropolitan area and its vicinity, also a part of the Sunay district." A domestic broadcast had previously told of simultaneous attacks of Shizuoka prefecture below Tokyo.

Tokyo radio asserted the bombings were "indiscriminate" and caused little damage to "important establishments" but an air force spokesman at Washington emphasized indiscriminate bombing was not in the American plans.

DETAIL INSPECTION

Four long tables, three of them with wooden boxes, and there at the fourth we sit, Gert, Kitty, Gladys, Sis, Jennie, Babs, and I. Detail inspection seems to be a sort of breaking-in ground for what is known as either Inspectresses or Lady Inspectors. How one gets "broken in" here, or to what, I'm not quite sure, for all that we have done so far is to inspect for cracks in fearful occupation, test bearings to see if they turn freely. The seven of us sit there dreamily, each with a small wheel-shaped, purple object held between thumb and forefinger of her right hand, her left hand moving up and down, up and down, against it. Does it "catch," does it feel full of sand?

"This here war" doesn't seem to be fearfully interesting to my fellow-inspectresses. When I remarked that I hadn't seen a paper for days, Gert, with whom I eat lunch, said that she never bothered with no papers now, with this here war all over the front page there was never nothin' exciting in the news. Gert's "honey" (every one of them has a "honey") is in the Air Corps; if he can get a furlough next month, he's coming home, and probably they'll get married. It seems to me rather a lukewarm romance, but perhaps that is because Gert is a little more reserved than the others. Jennie and Sis can never wait in the morning to tell spaghetti place, and half a mile along the highway, a sort of tavern. For breakfast there is, fortunately, the Plant Cafeteria (coffee, cereal and toast, 30c). Perhaps one could eat one's supper there at quitting time, but four seems a little early to be dining. So I come, have my bath and change from slacks to skirt. Then Nuisance and I set out for Main street.

The Restaurant has two sections, a dining room (not too crowded) and a counter-and-booths department (stand in line). Our evening procedure is invariable. I head for the dining room; become convinced that, although a factory hand may enter, a factory hand's over-sized dog may not; give a discouraged look at the waiting booths department line, and march past. We go along Main Street to its end, turn off to the Park.

By the time we go back to the Restaurant the crowd has gone, but so has most of the food. And spaghetti, more than three times a week, I cannot endure.

Fed after a fashion, we wander down Pine Street and Broad Street and Oak, past all the frame houses with the family and the boarders sitting in rockers on the front porch, and go into Schwartz's stationery store for our evening coke or, perhaps, our block of ice cream.

Sometimes Mrs. Schwartz is busy. Sometimes she is not and she tells me of Moore City's past, or of the present doings of people entirely unknown to me, an ignorance which I dare not confess.

She has a son in the Army, a married daughter who lives down the street and a niece who works at Kerry Kraft, but in the office. A very educated girl, Mrs. Schwartz tells me, not only high school but a year of business school too. Had I

Expert Linguists Serve Armed Forces On Global Battlefronts

WASHINGTON—Do you speak Ewe? Could you make a public address in Geez? Do you have a general auditory, speaking and reading competence in Mahrish?

Global war demands a global command of languages. The National Roster of Scientific and Specialized Personnel of the War Manpower Commission has the names on file of individuals who do speak, read and, if necessary, could make a few well chosen after-dinner remarks in Geez, Ewe or Mahrish.

These three particular dialects were picked at random from the Roster's files. They just happened to be among those for which, as yet, the war has not made a demand. Others, equally strange to American ears, have been needed and the Roster was able to supply the person wanted.

The Roster never knows from day to day when to expect a telephone call from the War or Navy department, the Office of Strategic Services, the State department or some other government agency which will necessitate a hurried wire to someone speaking or translating Hindi, Gushitic, Friulian, Morlak or the like.

Frequently the order entails more than just familiarity with the language skill but other qualifications of a technical nature, as well. The War department, for example, recently asked for some one person or several persons with technical military backgrounds, preferably scholars who could speak, write and translate in Korean, Burmese, Siamese, Danish and Slovak. The Navy department wanted a translator "familiar with natural terms" in Croatian. The State department asked for a political scientist who was an expert in reading, writing and speaking fluent Portuguese.

One War department official requested the names of "Americans who possess knowledge of epidemiology and chemotherapy, are competent in the diagnosis and control of endomeeba histolytica and other protozoan infections, have a knowledge of Hindustani languages, are skilled in the operation and use of bacteriological research apparatus and who have traveled in the tropics". An epidemic had broken out in a tropical island where the United States was building a new air base. The germ carriers were brought to the transplanted Hindus. An hour after the request was received the name of a qualified and available person was provided and before the day was out he was on an Army clipper flying to report for duty.

—for the day when "Highways are Happy Ways" again!

Tomorrow's "dream bus" is much more than a dream. It is shaping up today, in full scale models that will soon be translated into gleaming fluted metal, curved plastic glass, new type chairs built for long-trip relaxation — many features of comfort and efficiency we can't even talk about now.

Super-Coaches like this are coming, sure as Victory. Greyhound will pioneer in their design and will make all possible speed in their construction — without relaxing, for one moment, its full-time job of carrying war manpower. These startling new buses will not only replace equipment overworked by the extreme pressure of wartime travel—they'll give eleven million returning Service men and women (and travel-hungry millions at home) a more delightful way to see and enjoy "This Amazing America." It all adds up to this: the day is on its way when "Highways are Happy Ways" again!

DIXIE MEN ARE BIG GUNS FOR BOTH ATTACKS

Sod at Municipal Stadium Like Oil Today: Would Hamper Army's T

By FRITZ HOWELL
BALTIMORE, Nov. 30.—If anyone plows a touchdown furrow through the newly-sodded landscape of Municipal stadium Saturday for Army or Navy, it's more than an even bet he'll be from south of the Mason-Dixon line.

The eleven from West Point and Annapolis are banking on the ball-toters from Dixie in their climactic contest, on the outcome of which Army's national championship hopes are hanging.

Bob Jenkins, Navy's plunging-passing-punting paragon, may not be able to toe the starting line—the toe being infected—but even with the No. 1 middle threat on the sidelines the Annapolis aggregation will present plenty of pickin' talent from Sunny Southland.

In the first two backfields for Navy will be such luminaries as Bill Barron of Lewisburg, Tenn.; Fred Earley of Parkersburg, W. Va.; Ralph Ellsworth of San Antonio, Tex.; Hal Hamberg of Loneoke, Ark.; Clyde Scott of Smackover, Ark.; and Bruce Smith of Miami, Fla. Jenkins, if he goes, won't hurt the Southern cause a bit. He's from Talladega, Ala.

Army's top threats in the touchdown category include Felix Blanchard of Bishopville, S. C.; Bobby Dobbs of Frederick, Okla.; Dale Hall of Parsons, Kan.; Ed Kenna, of Jackson, Miss.; Capt. Tom Lombardo of St. Louis, Mo.; Johnny Minor of Tahoka, Tex.; and Arnold Tucker of Miami, Fla.

A couple of Northerners and two West Coasters, sneaked into the point-counting corps, including Army's Dean Sensenbaurer of Uhrichsville, O.; Dick Waltherhouse of Washtenaw, Mich.; Johnny Sauer of Dayton, O.; and Glenn Davis of Los Angeles; and Navy's Dick Duden of Englewood, N. J.; Jim Pettit of Portland, Ore.; Joe Sullivan of Pittsburgh and Al Walton of Pasadena, Calif.

Rains have made an only cushion under the new sod placed on more than half the stadium, and the slippery footing is expected to hamper the "T" maneuvers of the soldiers more than it does the single-wing offensive of the Midshipmen.

Mills Picks Ohio, Iowa Cage Champs

(By Associated Press)
CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 30.—Coach Doug Mills of the University of Illinois basketball team, today picked Ohio State and Iowa to fight it out for the Big Ten cage crown in the coming race.

Ohio won 16 of 12 starts in last season's Conference campaign to grab the league crown, while Iowa gained runnerup spot with nine triumphs and three defeats. Mills said both the Buckeyes and Hawkeyes will have veteran teams returning.

The Illinois coach and athletic director named Northwestern and Wisconsin to crowd the Buckeyes and Hawks for honors, grouping the remaining conference teams, including his own, as question marks.

Still Snatching Mascot, Though Rivalry Is Over

PULLMAN, Wash.—The war may have eliminated the traditional gridiron clash between the University of Idaho and Washington State College here, but it has not stopped the Idaho Vandals favorite sport of "kidnapping" the WSC mascot—a full-grown cougar.

In prewar years the Vandals regularly abducted "Butch the Fourth," WSC's "catamount" mascot just before the big game. This year neither school has a football team, but, on the eve of the game's anniversary, "Butch" was missing from his cage on college hill.

He was located the next afternoon on the lawn of the Phi Delta Theta house on the Idaho campus at Moscow, eight miles away.

RED GRANGE FIGURES ARMY BETTER THAN NAVY BY TWO TOUCHDOWNS; RATES MULE'S SPEED OVER GOAT'S BUTTING

By RED GRANGE

BALTIMORE—Well, here it is, ladies and gentlemen—Army and Navy on Saturday afternoon in what is perhaps the most important football game ever played.

Rarely, if ever, have two such fine college teams—the point-a-minute Cadets and the pulverizing Midshipmen—deployed against each other.

They battle before 75,000 persons in Baltimore's Municipal stadium in a scrap that will be listened to and waded by millions of men and women in and out of uniform around the world.

Navy has the nucleus of the club which made it five in a row over Army, 13-0, a year ago at West Point, and acquired outstanding plebes like Fullback Clyde Scott.

LT-Col. Earl Black had to rebuild his line around Joe Stanowicz, the lone regular holdover up front, but the fact that he could switch the Hackettston Hacker from tackle to guard is something in the way of evidence that other forwards came on in gigantic strides. Perhaps the most improved individual in the line from the Hudson Highlands is Center Bob St. Onge.

Four TD Improvement

In comparison to this Army team, the one of 1943 was a disorganized, fumbling mob incapable of scoring against Grade A competition.

As Lt.-Comdr. Frank Leahy of Notre Dame predicted, it took the Future Generals a year to become accustomed to the modern T with man-in-motion. In his final whirl, Doug Kenna, previously handicapped by injuries, turned out to be a Sid Luckman or Angelo Bertelli as the man down under.

Glenn Davis is at left halfback, where he belongs. Doc Blanchard, a plebe, gives the Army T the required smashing fullback.

Army has two topnotch combinations. The first may have a bit more poise, but the second does not regard itself as such and has more stuff.

Army can go any distance more ways than Navy. It has a more resourceful attack, superior speed. There is not so much difference in the lines. If the young men of the Plain ever required added incentive against Annapolis, they have it this trip in being determined to check the Crabtown skein at five.

I consider this Army squad four touchdowns better than the one of last fall, so am giving the Cadets' quick-striking power a two-touchdown margin.

With Navy and Army out of the way, Notre Dame struck back magnificently, and I have an idea the Irish will keep moving against Great Lakes. It was the Sailors, you will recall, who spoiled their perfect season a year ago, when Steve Lach completed a long, dying pass to Paul Anderson in the last 30 seconds.

Texas Gets Shaky Vote

Surprising Texas Christian should clinch the Southwest conference leadership by repelling its neighborhood rival, Southern Methodist.

Rice, Arkansas and Texas Tech figure to close with victories over Southwest Texas, Monticello Naval and the South Plains A. A. F., respectively.

Upset by the Notre Dame result, Georgia Tech should heighten its Orange Bowl stature by shipping Georgia, but the Engineers will know they have been in a football game. It's Tulane over Louisiana State, Virginia over North Carolina and Daniel Field over Newberry.

Oklahoma figures to win the Big Six title by repulsing Nebraska.

Tulsa will enjoy the first of its two trips to Miami at the expense of the Coral Gables Hurricanes.

Because the site is Austin I'm giving the oft-changed Texas lineup a shaky vote over Texas A. and M. on Thursday. In other scraps on regular Thanksgiving day, the choices are Maryland over Virginia Military and William and Mary over Richmond.

This is your last chance.

Go to bed early the night before and enjoy the game.

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Ever hear of people who wanted to give away money? . . . That's getting to be a hot subject in minor league baseball and one which will be argued over again at next week's Buffalo convention. . . . Last year the Southern association asked that Class A-1 leagues be allowed to pay bonuses to other than first-year players. . . . Leagues of lower classification asked to be declared in and the whole business was voted down. . . . This year the Southern is asking the right to pay bonuses for signing players coming out of the Armed forces and the Atlanta club proposes giving the player his choice between a cash bonus and ten percent of the price when he is sold into a higher class. . . . The same league wants to raise player limits right down the line so clubs can absorb returning service men without hardship.

FIRST STRINGERS

When three members of the Pampa, Texas, High school football team received a call from their draft board to report Nov. 30 it called for some fast work by the coach. . . . Nov. 30 is Thanksgiving in Texas and the day of Pampa's big game.

By promising to deliver the boys to the Oklahoma City induction station in time for their examinations, the coach was allowed to keep them for the game.

SHORTS AND SHELLS

Gunder Haegg will make up the salary he loses as a necktie salesman by corresponding for a Swedish newspaper during his United States visit. Wonder if that comes under the rule about capitalizing on athletic fame? . . . The inter-collegiate soccer coaches plan to pick an All-Star college team to play a picked-for eleven in a charity tilt during the Christmas holidays.

SERVICE DEPT.

If you think it's been hard to pronounce football names this season, how about three long cheers for the Khurramabad Khurramabadgers of the Persian Gulf conference.

Ohio State's 1945 Team Will Have Good Nucleus

By HAROLD HARRISON

COLUMBUS, Nov. 30.—"What do you think the score will be Saturday?" has given way to "What will the Bucks have next year?" as the favorite question on Ohio State university's football front.

Whether the Bucks are able even to come close to their 1944 record will depend, of course, to a great extent on the incoming Freshmen, but right now it appears there should be at least 17 lettermen back on the job for the 1945 season.

Throughout the 1944 campaign head Coach Carroll Widdoes considered he had a 13-man first team Tom Keane and Bob Brugge dividing time in the backfield and Warren Ameling ready to play either guard or tackle.

Nine of these 13 probably will be gone before the 1945 season. Les Horvath Bill Willis, Gordon Appleby and Jack Dugger are seniors. The others either have turned or will turn 18 before another season and thus are in line for the armed services.

Thirteen Left

That will leave as a nucleus from the first 13 Fullback Oide Clime who is 4P, tackles, Russ Thomas (4P), and Ameling (2A), and Guard Bill Hackett (2A).

In the backfield Widdoes now figures on having Matt Brown, John Ehrsam, Bob Dove, Jerry Tuttle and Joe Mascio. In addition, Paul Sarringhaus, a star of the 1942 team, has been discharged from the Army and says he'll re-enter school. The question mark about Sarringhaus, however, is an injured ankle.

Brown, a veteran from 1943, saw considerable defensive action this year but Ehrsam, Dove and Tuttle were used sparingly.

Dick Jackson and Bobby Wallace 4P's, figure too to be back for end duty and Bob McGinnis also may return for tackle duty. Paul Maltinsky and George Neff, 4P's and veterans of two years, should be back to play guard and there will be Charles Renner, another 4P, for center. Renner saw a lot of service this year as replacement for Appleby.

Widdoes now is out beating a

DUGGER REFUSES BIG GAME OFFER

COLUMBUS, Nov. 30.—Jack Dugger, Ohio State university's all Big Ten end, said today he had "definitely turned down" an invitation to play in the annual East-West Shrine charity game at San Francisco Jan. 1, but two other members of the Western Conference championship team are "on the fence."

They are Captain-elect Bill Hackett, a guard, and Quarterback Tom Keane. A university spokesman said last night all three had been invited to participate in the New Year's Day classic.

Dugger said he preferred to remain here and "try out" for the Ohio State basketball team.

LEAVES FROM A WAR CORRESPONDENT'S NOTEBOOK

—by Hal Boyle

An American airbase in Belgium, Nov. 7—(Delayed)—The nearest thing to Dungen and Pythias friendship in the Army is the relationship between pilot and radar observer of the two-man, night-flying Black Widow fighters.

The radar observer helps direct the pilot to within striking distance of fugitive Nazi aircraft. The pilot then closes in directly for the kill with prolonged bursts from his 20MM cannon.

It is a dual responsibility. Each man's life hangs on the performance of his buddy. And when they knock down a German plane or a flying bomb each shares the credit equally. Once a pilot and an observer team up they are inseparable.

"There isn't any formula for the way they pick each other out, either," said one officer. "Sometimes during the training period they just get together and pair off—and once they get used to flying together they know and trust each other's judgment."

I stayed two nights with a couple of teams that live on the rim of this muddy airfield in a two-room shack they built for themselves in four days from wreckage salvaged from bombed buildings. The four men were as close to each other as slices of bread in a ham sandwich.

They were Capt. Raymond A. Anderson, 22, of Taylor, Wis. and his observer, Lt. John U. Morris, Jr., 22, of Oswego, N. Y., and Lt. Theodore I. Jones, 22, of Millbrook, N. Y., and his observer, Lt. William G. (Okie) Adams, Jr., 23, of Asheville, N. C.

"There was another team in here with us who helped us fix up the place," said Jones, then added without a change of expression, "one night they didn't come back from Germany."

Anderson, blind, quiet, chunky but whom other fliers nicknamed "baby face," is flight leader and one of the best-liked men on the field. He and Morris have flown over 35 missions and turned in the first victory for the squadron by knocking down a German Junkers 88 from a formation of 22 raiding planes. It was the first enemy aircraft knocked down by an American night fighter in the European theater.

"I don't have very good vision forward and had my eye pushed halfway through the plexiglass window watching him go down," said Morris, who used to sell life insurance.

Jones and Adams also are veterans of 35 missions and have brought down a Focke-Wulf 190, which they caught at dusk. "It was the first time we tried any of that daylight stuff—and we are still shaking," said Jones with a grin.

Over a special "birthday" soup concocted by Lt. Fred B. Copenhaver, Leavenworth, Kas., armament officer, to celebrate his 31st birthday, the boys talked shop with Capt. A. K. Harvin, Nacogdoches, Tex., squadron radar officer, and Capt. Percy Poehler, Chicago, Ill. Copenhaver was justly proud of his soup.

"It is made of bouillon, dried onions, salt, pepper, cheese, bacon grease and that stuff that makes your breath smell—garlic," he said.

Harkin said the secret radar instruments used in the planes were highly trusted by the men, most of whom prefer to fly at night.

"We feel when we spot a 'bogey'—that's what we call an unidentified plane—that he can't get away from us," said Adams. "I would much rather tie up at night than in the daytime... up there at night above the clouds in moonlight you are in another world."

"Yes, it's quite beautiful above those clouds," affirmed Jones. The two friends looked across at each other with understanding eyes. You could see why they are good teammates.
